Listening 1.

Matt: Welcome back to Teen Weekly. Here's our shopping expert, Keeley, to tell us about online shopping.

Keeley: Thanks, Matt. Online shopping, or e-commerce, is growing fast. From 2019 to 2020, online sales increased by over thirty percent in the USA. Why? Well, first, it's so convenient. You can buy anything you want while sitting on your sofa at home. It's really fast, and you don't need to go outside! Lots of products are actually cheaper online than in-store. Sounds great, right?

Well, it's not perfect. There are some issues with buying online. First, you can't always try before you buy. If you buy clothes online, they may not fit you. They could be too big, too small, or low-quality.

The second problem is with deliveries. The shipper may deliver your items late, damage them, or lose them. Sometimes you can even receive the wrong item! The final problem is fraud. This is when you pay for something but it never arrives. The company takes your money and keeps it. Shoppers around the world lose billions of dollars because of fraud. So, what do you do if you have a problem? Well, you should write a complaint email to the company...

Listening 2.

Reporter: Does thermal pollution mean that bodies of water get hotter, Mr Nam?

Mr Nam: Not always. Sometimes the water becomes colder, and that's also thermal pollution. In general, thermal pollution means a change in the water temperature.

Reporter: That's interesting! What causes it?

Mr Nam: Power stations are one factor. They use water in the nearby lakes or rivers to cool their equipment, which heats up the water. Then they dump the hot water back into its source.

Reporter: Are there any other causes?

Mr Nam: Yes. Thermal pollution may also happen due to the discharge of cold water from reservoirs into warm rivers.

Reporter: Thermal pollution can have dramatic effects. Right?

Mr Nam: Certainly. Most aquatic creatures need a certain temperature to survive. Warmer water has less oxygen in it, and this can harm fish populations. Besides, warmer water can cause harmful algal blooms. This can change the colour of the water like in the first picture and, more seriously, the algae poisons the fish.

Reporter: What can we do, Mr Nam?

Mr Nam: In many places, they build cooling towers like in the second picture to cool down the water from power stations.

Reporter: Anything else we can do?...
