As teenagers, setting goals can help you live a more balanced life. Goals give you a sense of direction and help you manage your time better. When you have clear goals, it's easier to focus on schoolwork, hobbies, and time with friends and family.

To start, think about what is important to you. For example, you may want to improve your grades, learn a new sport, or spend more time with family. Once you know your goal, break it into smaller steps. This makes it easier to work on and helps you stay motivated.

It's also important to set goals that you can achieve. If your goal is too hard, you might feel frustrated and give up. For example, if you want to get fit, start by jogging a few times a week instead of trying to run a marathon.

Finally, check your progress often. Ask yourself if you are still on track to reach your goal. If not, change your plan and try again. This will help you stay focused and not lose motivation.

By setting your own goals, you can create a balanced and happy life, making sure there is time for everything that matters to you.

Question 33. What is the main purpose of the text?

- A. To show why teenagers should focus more on their hobbies.
- B. To describe how teenagers can achieve school success easily.
